

Assignment 5 – Giving MeetMat a back story

Backstory

This version of MeetMat is known as the Pathfinder. It was a robot designed under the MRVN program. The MRVN program was initiated by Earth's top scientists and engineers in effort to greatly improve the quality of life by having it perform nearly any human task. It didn't take long for the MRVN program to be weaponized for war.

After 500 years of chaos, humans have driven themselves extinct through both planetary and intergalactic wars, and the Earth has been rendered uninhabitable due to damage of the wars accelerating climate change. The only thing moving on the surface of the planet at this point is metal. One solitary MRVN robot, named Pathfinder, continues to execute his core protocol: to find a way to restore humanity. The Pathfinder had been repurposed several times to suit different situations, as seen by the general weathering and damage on its components. It has been surviving by replacing its damaged parts with those of other fallen MRVN robots.
